PROCESS ADVISORY

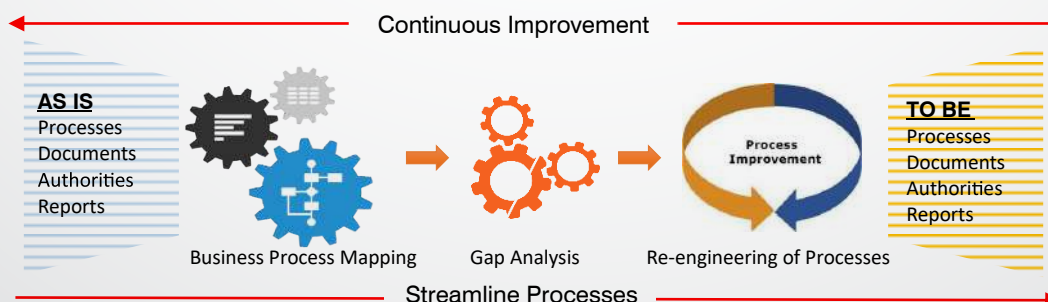

Business processes are like the central nervous system of an organization. Success is directly linked to the alignment of business processes to organizational goals. Well-defined business processes can lead to process automation, which in turn helps the Management focus more on strategies for growth and innovation rather than on routine operational matters. Recognizing this need, MaGC has Process Advisory as one of its main practice areas and has garnered more than a decade of experience advising clients in improving their business processes.

MaGC helps its clients document business processes, analyze gaps, and re-engineer the processes. Well-documented business processes help organizations move towards certifications such as ISO. MaGC takes pride in having completed many process advisory assignments for government, corporate, and not-for-profit sectors in India and abroad. MaGC has experience working in multiple industries such as manufacturing, service, education, hospitality, healthcare and so on. MaGC clients range from small single owner entities to large organizations in the private as well as public sector.
