“Reinventing oneself leading to the future”

MaGC has been in the field of management consulting, training, and research. The successful outcome of advice to our clients arises from the expertise gained by MaGC over a period of time. Every assignment has resulted in gaining better perspectives about issues, that are converted into inputs for the successive assignments. Such experiences are passed on to the client through structured training that enables them internalize better management practices that are conceptually strong and practically relevant to their business.

TRAINING

Training is the link between an executive and his job - an organization and its market - a person and his future. This is the philosophy with which MaGC has been offering training programmes to its clients.

Many organizations train their employees in a structured or unstructured way. In these days where jobs are getting complicated at all levels, adequate human resources fit for the job is not available, multi-tasking has become a basic requirement for any kind of job, the importance of training needs to be recognized.

Training is the only way good quality human resources can be perennially provided to any organization in a sustainable manner.

MaGC has developed innovative methods of training which are based on hands-on analysis of the requirements of training at various levels and various types of organizations. From proprietary organizations to multi-national corporations and government, from private ownership to Not-for-Profits to Government organizations, MaGC has developed insights into the training needs of organizations and its employees.

Right from analysis of training, to the conduct of training, and evaluation of training, MaGC has the required expertise to offer. The wide range of services offered under the Training competence area has made MaGC the long term training partner for a number of clients, particularly in the SME sector.
